GENERAL ALLEN TURNS COBLENZ OVER TO FRENCH

Transfer Takes Place at Noon in American Headquarters

Entire Staff of American Office Receives French Commander

Coblenz, Jan. 27.—(By A. P.)—The Coblenz area of occupied Germany, held by the American troops since the establishment of the allied watch on the Rhine, was turned over to the French at noon today.

Major General Henry T. Allen, commander in chief of the American forces in Germany and General Marty of the French army, were the two military officers involved in the transfer.

This final ceremony, ending the four years of American occupation was of the simplest character.

General Marty, accompanied by a single French officer, came to General Allen's headquarters, where the American commander and his full staff received them. Promptly at noon General Allen turned over the area so long under the control of his forces to French commander.

The formal transfer of authority took but a few moments.

The assumption of control by the French, it is stated, will be followed immediately by the application of the same disciplinary measures that the French have been imposing upon the Prussian civil authorities elsewhere in the Rhineland. This policy heretofore has not been extended to the Coblenz area under the Americans and any involvement of General Allen with the German officials in this connection has been avoided.

At the same time a sub-committee will begin hearings on various related farm relief measures, including that for financing the export of agricultural products.

The strong bill, proposing important amendments to the federal farm loan act, was reported out today by the banking committee. It would authorize loans for the purchase of land for agricultural uses and for the purchase of such equipment, fertilizers and livestock as may be necessary for the proper and reasonable operation of a mortgaged farm.

Provisions also will demand a increase in the loan maximum from $10,000 to $16,000 with the federal farm bureau in a special instances to grant loans up to $25,000.

MARK VALUE DROPS TO $36 MILLION

New York, Jan. 27. — An overnight depreciation of 14 per cent in the quoted value of German marks carried them today to $36 a million, or approximately 27,777 to the American dollar. The marks which could be bought today for a dollar would have cost more than $6,500 before the outbreak of the war in 1914 when marks were quoted at 23.8 cents each.

The last statement of the German Reichs bank showed a weekly increase of 101,279,000 marks in circulation.

BUTLER FLAYS LIQUOR LAWS

Says They Will Not Be Repealed But Futile Attempt Will Be Made to Enforce Them

Columbus, Jan. 27—(By A. P)—There is no likelihood that the 18th amendment ever can be enforced, "no matter at what expenditure of money or of effort," Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, declared in an address today at the annual midwinter meeting of the Ohio State Bar association.

He linked the prohibition amendment with the 15th addition to the constitution of the United States, which was proclaimed in 1870, and granted the negro suffrage, as "two important and law made influences which now are making, and seem likely long to make for lawlessness in American life." The subject of his address was "Law and Lawlessness."

He asserted that "methods of Czarist Russia, and of the Spanish Inquisition" are being used to enforce one provision of law, and said there are a "dozen verboten signs in the United States to every one that Russia can show."

"In form and in fact," he said, "and judged by all the usual tests and standards, these two amendments are part of the organic law, and with all the rights and authority which attach thereto. Nevertheless, they are not obeyed by large numbers of highly intelligent and morally sensitive people, and there is no likelihood that they ever can be enforced, no matter at what expenditure of money or of effort, or at what cost or infringment or of neglect of other equally valid provisions of the same constitution."

After pointing out "the negro votes in those states where he voted when the 15th amendment was passed," the speaker asserted every attempt to enforce the 14th and 15th amendment has been denounced as a force bill. "Oddly enough," he continued, "it has been denounced by those very senators and representatives who will go to any length to enforce the provisions of the 18th amendment.

"The practical question is not whether the colored man should vote in the southern states, but whether the American people frankly will face the problem presented by the nullification throughout a large part of the land of a most important provision of the constitution of the United States.

"The situation with regard to the 18th amendment is even worse, because the revolt against it is not confined to men and women of intelligence and moral sensitiveness in one section alone, but is nationwide. It will not do to attempt to silence these persons by abuse or by catch phrases and formulas.

"These men and women dissent entirely from the grounds upon which the case for the 18th amendment was rested, and they regard its provisions and those of the statutes based upon it as forcible, an immoral and tyrannical invasion of their private life and personal conduct.

"The moral sense, as well as the common sense, of very many people is affronted by a policy which will expend millions of dollars and use the methods of Czarist Russia and of the Spanish Inkuisition to enforce one provision of law, while others of far greater significance and public importance are accorded conventional treatment, or less.

"No one who is familiar with the practical workings of our political system, would expect either the 15th or the 18th amendment to be repealed within measurable time. So far as one can see, therefore, we are shut up to the alternative of their attempted enforcement by soldiers, and police and special agents, and detectives and spies, or to their abrogation over a great part of the land by local initiative and common consent. Either alternative is humiliating and degrading."

Klan Gets Formal Trial in Chicago in Fireman's Case

Chicago, Jan. 27—Selection of Chicago as the scene of the first formal trial of the invisible empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan before the bar of public opinion and a judicial body was indicated here today by developments since the arrival of imperial officers of the organization.

William H. Green, cty fireman, whose suspension from the fire department for his alleged klan membership brought the officers here to challenge the order. He admitted his membership and asserted he wished to stand trial for suspension before the Chicago civil service commision on that ground.

Although he declined to say whether he had been requested to make that statement by the imperial officers, it was known that Green had been in conference with them. At Green's suggestion Fire Chief Seyferlich drew a charge against him for presentation to the civil service commission which in part read as follows:

"That the said William H. Green fireman, is an admitted member of the Ku Klux Klan and that he has suscribed to an oath of the said organization which is contrary to the provisions of the constitution of the United States of America and which is evidence of his unfitness to remain in the service of the city of Chicago."

The civil service commission said the charge would come before it for hearing Feb. 2, when a date for Green's trial probably would be set, Meanwhile Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard of the klan, issued statements explaining the purposes and obligations of the order and replying to those of Louisana state officials regarding the Bastrop, La., investigation. He charged Governor Parker of Louisana with political or other motives in starting the inquiry, characterized it as "a frame up on the Ku Klux Klan" and declared it had failed.

While the klan was expected to make its first stand here to answer charges against the organization an official of the American Unity league announced an "all nations rally" would be held here beginning Feb. 26, to form the foundation of an organization opposed to the klan.

Governor Parker and Governor A. Smith of New ork, were named as the principal speakers.

"MOB SPECIAL" RUN BY RAILWAY

Rail Union Head Charges That Armed Men Were Carried on Special Train in Arkansas.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 27.—(By The A. P.)—Charges that a "mob special" carrying armed men was run over the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad for the purpose of inflicting punishment upon striking employes of the railway, were made in a statement made public today by D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. Mr. Robertson has communicated with the governor of Arkansas asking an investigation of the recent trouble at Harrison and Heber Springs, involving, the lynching of a striker by unidentified men and the expulsion of a number of other strikers by a "citizens committee."

He has promised the governor his organization will co-operate with the state in bringing to justice all guilty parties regardless of who they may be.

The brotherhood directors have voted $10,000 for the relief of striking firemen on the Missouri and North Carolina line and $500 has been voted to the widow of E. C. Gregor, the union machinist who was hanged at Harrison.

"An armed mob was carried on a special train over the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad for the purpose of inflicting punishment upon employes and their families who about two years ago left the service of the railroad and engaged in a legal strike protest aainst an arbitrary and excessive reduction in their wages made effective by the management in violation of the transportation act," said the statement.

TURKS RESUME DEPORTATIONS

Athens, Jan. 27.—(By A. P.)—The Turks have abruptly resumed deportations in Anatolia despite the Greek governments decision not to admit more refugees to this country while epidemics of cholera, typhus and small pox are raging, according to advices received by the near east relief.

A telegram from Constantinople said that the Turkish authorities had suddenly ordered 3,000 Greeks at Trebiscond to leave immediately aboard three foreign ships

DRY NAVY ON PACIFIC.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 27—Another navy is to be added to the Pacific coast, Samuel F. Rutter, federal prohibition director for California, announced here today. It will be officially known as the "United States Pacific dry navy." The new "dry navy" patterned after New York' famous fleet, will chase every liquor carrying craft found inside the Pacific coast three mile limit. Just when the "dry navy" is to begin operations remains shrouded in secrecy.

ASK HELP FOR RUSS REFUGEES

Governor General Wood Will Request Part of Relief Fund For Victims.

Manila, Jan. 27—(By The A. P.)—It is reported here today that the one ship of the Russian refugees fleet reported wrecked off Formosa yesterday was small but it is not known how many persons were aboard. All other vessels of the fleet either are in quarantine at Mariveles, Philippine Islands or else are reported en route from Formosa.

Admiral Stark, commander of the exiles, said the four ships presumably on their way here should arrive in the next few days unless stormy weather compels them to take refuge at some northern port. He added that he had confidence in the officers of these four vessels and believe that none had deserted.

Governor General Wood questioned Admiral Stark today regarding the title of the refugees on their ships. The admiral said they had belonged to the Kerensky regime the last Russian government which the refugees recognized.

Governor General Wood on his return to Manila from Mariveles said he would ask the government at Washington to allot part of the Russian relief fund for the refugees here.

TRAIN IS DERAILED.

Mauchchunk, Pa., Jan. 27.—A mail car on the night express from Syracuse, N. Y., to Philadelphia on the Central Railroad of New Jersey was derailed at Rockport early today, ran into a light engine on a siding, injuring a fireman and shook up some passengers. One or two passengers were said to have suffered minor injuries but proceeded to their destinations.

CZECHS OFFER MEDIATION IN RUHR SCRAP

Belgrade Dispatch Tells of Plans to Offer Assistance

German Resistance in Occupied Region is Strengthened Everywhere

Paris, Jan. 27.—In the name of the Little Entente, Czecho-Slovakia is about to offer mediation between France and Germany in settlement of the reparation question, according to the newspaper Pravda, says the Matin today. The dispatch, which comes from Belgrade, adds that the Czecho-Slovakian minister to Germany has just arrived in that city in connection with the plan.

Duesseldorf, Jan. 27.—(By The A. P.)—A further strengthening of German resistance was generally anticipated by the French today as an aftermath of yesterday's meeting of Ruhr police chiefs, burgomasters and state officials at which it was said, measures for parring the occupation were discussed. One immediate result of the conference was the arrest of its chairman, Dr. Gruetzner, president of the province of Rhenish Prussia. Dr. Gruetzner was later released. The French are understood to be ready for any developments and with additional troops on the scene have this city practically under martial law.

Public places, such as hotels, cafes, cabarets and theaters were closed last evening at 10 o'clock by the occupationists, while soldiers walked the beats of the German police.

Reports that the French contemplate summoning several military classes suggest the extent to which the Paris government is preparing to go in forcing the Germans into line. It is thought likely however, that he next important move will not come until after January 31, the time limit for the 500,000,000 gold mark reparation payment.

Industry and commerce are being seriously affected by the rail strike and the French are ready to try their hand at operating the lines with the assistance of the 3,500 rail workers expected in th Ruhr today.

Having stablished their own communications through Neuss Junction so as to avoid Cologne, the occupation authorities have informed Berlin that hey cannot move civilian food trains and thus the question of hunger may be added to the situation.

Imposition of the costoms control by which the French will be able to direct exports and imports into occupied Germany, is expected soon. This step is hailed in German qharters as the last link in the chain that will imprison and stifle Ruhr industry.

Another court martial is in prospect. Burgomaster Schmidt and Dr. Oexle, the Dusseldorf police chief, both of whom are under arrest as a result of Thursday evening's disturbance, await trial at Mayence on charges of failing to preserve law and order.

Gongress Stands in Way of Debt Finding, Envoy Says

Southampton, Jan. 27.—(By A. P.)—Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the excquer, returning on the Olympic today from his debt mission to Washington, told newspaper men that settlement of the debt question in the United States "was in the hands of congress as the representatives of the people" and that this situation constituted "the great difference between America and this country." Explaining that in America you may have an executive who is willing to do a great deal for you, but cannot because of the difficulties encountered in congress" Mr. Baldwin said.

"In the early days the secretary for the treasury could undoubtedly have arranged terms with the British government, but the situation now is complicated because the matter is in the hands, of the American congress. You are not settling in America with the cabinet at one end or with business men at the other. You are settling with congress nl England if any terms are agreed on regarding the debt, the government takes the responsibility."

Mr. Baldwin described Americans as "a country not an urban people."

"They have men of our way of thinking in the eastern states," he said, "but that does not cut any ice at all with regard to the other parts of America.

"If you look at the senate, you will find that the majority of the members come from the agricultural and pastoral communities and they do not realize the existing position with regard to the meaning of the international debt.

"The bulk of the people in America have no acquaintance with it. Great Britain lives on international trade, but in America this is not so. The people in the west merely sell wheat and hogs and other produce and take no further interest in connection with the international debt or international trade.

"They are in very much the same frame of mind we used to be in regarding reparations, when a large number of people in this country thought that Germany would send bags of gold every Saturday night until the money was paid up.

"A great many people in America think that all we have to do is to send the money over.

"The debt can only be funded on such terms as can be got through congress and the senate and that is the root of the difficulty with which we are now faced."

Mr. Baldwin said that unless an arrangement were arrived at by which an agreement between the American debt funding commission and the British government were approved and ratified by congress before March 4, the matter would be deferred until the end of the year There was no chance, he said of new proposals being put forward previous to March 4.

Mr. Baldwin said he believed the American people thought they had been generous in their offer, but the English people did not take that view.

Mr. Baldwin intimated that unless the debt were funded Great Britain would continue paying five percent interest.

All the best opinion in New York, he said, "believes that the pound and the dollar will go to parity pretty soon. The way in which the pound has been going up is very remarkable but there are good judges who think it is not so much the appreciation of the pound as the depreciation of the dollar."

Veterans Try Experiment Of Community Farming

New Orleans, La, Jan. 27.—Sixteen veterans of the world war rehabilitated as farmers today started an experiment at Canton, Mississippi, under direction of Blair Harrison, chief of rehabilitation for the sixteenth district of the United States veterans bureau.

These men moved into the first farming community established by the United States veterans bureau and will conduct their community under its guidance, Mr. Harrison said.

The men were given fully equipped 40-acre farms on a plan under which they can own them in a few years, the announcement said. They are to conduct their own marketing through co-operative methods solely among themselves. They will have their own school to be used for continuing their agricultural training and by their children for regular school work.

The 16 farms on which the men moved comprise a part of the initial tract of 1,680 acres which has been set aside by the people of Canton. When the colony of 150 men is completed, nearly 17,000 acres of land adpated to truck farming will be under cultivation.

According to the announcement live stock is being supplied by the Illinois Central railroad. The railroad has agreed to provide thoroughbred hogs and allow the veterans to pay for the animals out of the revenue from increases to the herds. The same proposition has been made by a southern cattle breeder and a group of chicken fanciers.

The venture will be watched by the veterans bureau as a solution of the problem of caring for thousands of veterans being trained as agriculturists and if successful probably will adopted elsewhere, it was said.

Material for the construction of the houses and farm buildings has been purchased. In the meantime, the men and their families are being housed by Canton citizens until they can move into their homes. Cultivation of the land is under way.

SOLONS PROBE UNION CHARGES

Will Inquire Into Story That Union Rail Men Were Driven Out When They Refused to Renounce Organization.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 27.—Members of the Arkansas legislative committee investigating recent disorders along the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad indicated today they would question county officials and members of the "committee of 12", the executive council of the "citizens committee" which strikers alleged drove them from the M. and N. A. territory when they refused to renounce union affiliations, when to Harrison, which was the center the hearing is transferred from here of the industrial conflict.

The date for the removal to Harrison was not announced. The committee was not in session today.

In the Little Rock inquiry the striking employes almost unanimously testified they were given the choice of "tearing up their union cards" or leaving the region. The members of the "citizens committee" claimed that only the fear that the strikers would completely demoralize the railroad caused them to take action. Some of the citizens committee faction claimed that no prejudice was felt against the union men, but reported bridge burnings convinced them that "something should be done."

That divergence of views was believed responsible for the legislative committees decision to go to the scene of the disorder.

DONAHEY MAY ASK COURTS TO HELP RECOVER STATE RECORDS

Governor Demands Return of Financial Department's Minutes

Searching Public Inquiry and Court Action Is Threatened

Columbus, Jan. 27.—Demand for the immediate return to the state of the minutes of the emergency board and controlling board fom July 1, 1921 to January 22, 1922, is made in a letter written today by Governor Donahey to W. Albert Davis, who was director of finance in the cabinet of Governor Davis.

The governor's letter states that the records are not in the files of the finance department where they belong and cannot be located after a careful search and inquiry.

Public inquiry and court action will be resorted to if necessary, to effect the returns of these records, the governor's letter said, after reviewing that on two previous occasions demand for these records as been made upon Davis.

Following is the text of Governor Donahey's letter to Mr. Davis:

"The director of finance, W. E. Baker, has informed me that the minutes of the emergency board and controlling board from July 1, 1921 to January 22, 1922, are not in the files of the finance department and cannot be located after a careful search and inquiry.

"Demand has been made on you, on at least two occasions for these records, also for other contracts and papers that should be in the files of the finance department.

"It stands to reason that you, as the former head of this department, either have the records or know where they can be located and I demand that they be returned without delay. Unless these records are produced I propose to institute a searching public inquiry and go into the courts for assistance if necessary. It is about time, in the affairs of this state, when public officials shall be made accountable for the important records and papers in their control involving the expenditure of large sums of money."

"I shall appreciate your immediate attention to this matter."

SUGGESTS 3 PCT. INTEREST RATE

American Debt Finding Commission Would Have Entire Debt Paid In 62 Years.

Washington, Jan. 27.—It was revealed today that the American debt funding commission, in its recent negotiations with the British delegation on a funding arrangement for Great Britain's debt to the United States had suggested an interest rate of three per cent for the first 10 years and 3 1-2 per cent thereafter with provisions for extinguishing the entire debt in 62 years.

The suggestion included provision for stated annual payments and an amortization rate of one half of one per cent in addition to the yearly payments on the principal. The yearly payments, it was explained, were to increase as the amount of the interest decreased. The whole scheme over the entire 62 year period would average a rate approximately four per cent.

GOLF HAS SHARE IN FREAK PLAYS

Cleveland, Jan. 27.—(By NEA)—All the complicated plays in sport are not confined to the diamond and gridiron—golf has its share.

In a recent match played at the Willowick club of this city, Harry Moore pulled a freak play that isn't definitely covered in the book.

Playing out of a sand trap, Moore, who is a left-handed golfer, drove the ball into the nearby bunker. Striking the bunker, the ball took a reverse English and settled into the right pocket of the sweater which Moore was wearing, the weather being a trifle cool.

The match was for blood and Moore's opponent insisted that the ball must be played from where it lies. Moore, of course, insisted such a thing was impossible. His opponent good-naturedly insisted there was nothing to prevent him from removing his sweater, placing it on the ground, and driving the ball out of the pocket.

The contest was halted while Deke White, the club professional, was summoned. He ruled that Moore had the right to drop the ball back and take a stroke penalty, because of an unplayable lie.

Unquestionably the play is without precedent. None of the Cleveland professionals said they ever heard of such a thing as a ball settling in the pocket of the sweater of the player doing the driving.

WORLD ALMANAC IS PUBLISHED 38TH TIME

The World Almanac is presented to the American public for the thirty eighth year of its publication improved in form, handier to consult, easier to read, better printed and on better paper.

Readers who in constantly increasing numbers have testified to its value as a book of daily and constant reference will find the tables of statistics revised up to the latest possible date by heads of departments in the national government, in the states, in the cities (and particularly in New York city), and by men of authority in banking, trade and industry, and in social, educational and religious activities throughout the country.

New statistical tables present the latest census figures regarding population, vital statistics and industries which are supplanted by those of the departments of agriculture, commerce, labor and the interior, all setting forth in clear form the material growth of the republic.

In addition, the World Almanac presents this year descriptions of the several states of the union and its dependencies, and descriptions of all the foreign countries with their colonies and dependencies, carefully prepared in most condensed form from the best available authorities here and abroad. Much of this material has been furnished or revised by the embassies, legations and consulates of the countries concerned and by the World Almanac's correspondents abroad.

The World Almanac is published by the New York World. Price 50 cents, postpaid.

GREEN DIAMONDS IN AFRICA.

Two discoveries of green diamonds have recently been reported from South Africa. The first, found in the Bloemhof district, was a 5 1-2 karat stone, black and opaque, which, on cutting, yielded a jewel of 1 1-2 karats of an emerald-green shade. It has been appraised by London experts at about 5,000 pounds, or about 10 times the price of any ordinary white diamond, says the Engineering and Mining Journal-Press. The second green diamond was washed out at Parys, a short time ago, and was of 10 karats weight. It has been sent to a government valuator at Cape Town. One of the most celebrated green diamonds is the "Dresden Green," in the Saxon crown jewels, which weighs about 10 karats and is apple-green in color.

UMPIRE BYRON SPRINGS A NEW ONE—VOCAL INTERFERENCE

Bill Byron, former National League umpire, who worked in the Pacific Coast last year, is nothing if not original

Bryon, like the late Tim Hurst stands out as one of the characters of the game. He is different.

They do say that he can dig up more technicalities than any other umpire in the business.

For a time Byron worked in the International League. Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Boston club, tells this one about Byron.

Dunn was coaching at first base. The batter, with two out and three on, hit a high foul fly to the first baseman. Dunn kept backing away with the first baseman, who was pursuing the ball, trying to create the impression that he was making every effort to get out of his way. At the same time Dunn kept yelling. "I got it!" "I got it!"

The fielder finally permitted Dunn to take it, feeling some other player on his side was trying to make the catch. The ball fell safe, but to Dunn's great surprise he heard Byron call the batter out.

"What for?" Dunn asked.

"Interference," replied Byron.

"What kind?" said Dunn.

"Vocal and on your part," replied Byron, and it went, thereby adding something new to interference plays

J. C. CUBS PLAY HERE WEDNESDAY

The J. C. Cubs will play the Piggly Wiggly team here Wednesday night, January 31, at Hickey hall, the game being called at 8:15.

This team defeated a team representing the Piggly Wigglies New Years by the score of 30 to 16. The team also defeated the Portsmouth Selects last Saturday and also holds a decision over the Bliss College team of Columbus and will again play Bliss tonight.

Stolzenback, who has appeared in the Piggly Wiggly lineup on several occasions, is a regular with the J. C. Cubs and will play with them next Wednesday night.

Manager Clark of the J. C. Cubs is a brother of Eugene Clark, manager of the Piggly Wiggly team. He intends to hand his brother and his team another defeat next Wednesday.

Clark claims that he has a center better than "Cap" Smith and two guards who are exceedingly hard to score on.

"Cap" Smith, center for Piggly Wiggly, played on the Cub team last season on a four-day trip to southeastern Ohio when the Cubs copped the southeastern title by defeating the Gallipolis All-Stars and the Portsmouth Selects.

GO EASY, SAYS W. C., ON REFEREE EXPENSES

Chicago, Jan. 27.—(By The A. P.)—How much should a baseball umpire get for breakfast and can an athletic director live on less than a basketball referee.

These, and similar questions, have the western conference by the ears, and threaten to separate several athletic officials from the $15 fees they receiver for presiding at conference basketball games.

The storm broke today when a resolution adopted by the directors of athletics of the conference, branding expense accounts of many officials as exorbitant, became public. The directors voted to report the officials charging unreasonable expenses to Major John L. Griffith, the commissioner of athletics, with recommendations that they never again be employed to officiate in any sport.

The directors cited the expense account of one official who went from Chicago to Champaign, Ill., to umpire a baseball game. He started out with a $3 taxi bill from his home to the depot; ate a $1.25 breakfast; a $1.75 dinner and $2.000 supper. But what riled the directors were two charges of 25 cents each for a taxi on the two block trip from the depot to a Champaign hotel and a $4 50 bill for hotel room. They found the offender reached Champaign at noon and left at 6 20 p. m. and as he umpired the baseball game in between, the directors still are trying to figure out what he used the hotel room for. He spent $28.08 to earn his $15 fee.

The resolution adopted by the athletic directors says that "in many cases it costs the officials more than twice as much to make exactly the same trip as it does the athletic director."

THREE TEAMS LEFT IN POOL TOURNAMENT

All but three of the original 48 teams entered in the rotation pool tournament at the Bazaar were eliminated in the first four rounds of play which were completed Friday night. These three teams will all enter the play-off Monday night at 7.30, all three teams playing in the same game until the members of one team are low for two consecutive games.

This team which is low in two games will win third prize and the two remaining teams will batle for first and second prizes in a match, best two out of three.

RACING MEN ORGANIZE HERE

Meeting Will Be Held in July—Stock in Company to Be Sold Locally.

More than 50 members of the Newark Racing association met Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, the men meeting to perfect plans for a race meeting to be held at the local track, July 3, 4 and 5. These dates were definitely decided on and a meeting for formal organization of the association will be held February 16.

Attorney Fletcher S. Scott presided at the meeting last night and it was decided to reopen the books of the old Newark Racing association and sell shares. The company was incorporated two years ago for $5,000, shares being $10 each.

No race meeting was held last year and at the conclusion of 1921 the company paid out to stockholders the amount of their original holdings and in addition paid a 15 percent dividend. Consequently the entire issue of stock, 500 shares, is held by the company now, and plans for the distribution of the stock, and the holding of a first class meeting here in July will be perfected at the February meeting.

The Sturdy Six of Long Life
Why the Jewett Is a Good Investment
Some folks think only of looks when they buy a car. Thousands have bought this Jewett on looks alone. But there are things to know about the Jewett which will make you prefer it to all others. Ever notice how comfortably the Jewett rides? You are surprised at such easy action in this size car. It comes from extra long springs and the extra weight of rugged construction.
If you are wise you can't be fooled on rugged construction. You can feel it—or the lack of it—by the way a car rides. The trembling, bouncy car is flimsy. The steady, comfortable car is substantial. Do we need to tell you which car is a good investment? You can feel the Jewett's long life in the way it rides.
Will its power endure—remain smooth and quiet? A very important question. A short-lived motor makes any car a poor investment. How can you tell whether a motor will keep its power and smoothness? You don't need to be an engineer. With your ear and just one simple fact you can tell the answer.
Speed up the motor. Listen! Is it quiet? A noisy motor is poorly designed for long wear. And the one fact you need to make sure of is a high-pressure oiling system.
Jewett's high-pressure oiling system sends three gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings at 20 to 40 pounds pressure. It constantly bathes the entire mechanism in oil. Friction is reduced to nil. No chance for such a motor to wear out for years. Yes, you can prove the Jewett is a good investment.

Our Weekly Stage Letter

New York, Jan. 27—Last night I saw Nazimova in "Dagmar." In the closing scene she wore a scarlet nightgown and her lover stabbed her to death.

Any jury would acquit a man for killing a woman in a scarlet nightgown, yet I hoped that somebody would be hiding in the wings to deal out retribution to the lover as he came of the set. Indeed, I bore no good will toward anyone connected with the show It was the rankest I have seen this season.

Many years ago I passed a small theater In the lobby was a collection of bric-a-brac and furniture. A placard read, "All of this will be broken in the third act." I paid a quarter and went in to see the fun.

That show was better than "Dagmar". It made no pretensions to art. It was unashamedly melodrama of the rankest sort Nazimova has been acclaimed as one of the foremost artists of the theater, yet she selects as a vehicle for her return to the stage a play that possesses not one scintilla of art.

I wonder whether the movies have marred the art of Nazimova. Or has she heretofore been overrated as an artist because of the glamor of her personality and her early struggles?

Probably the movies are to blame She did about as she pleased in the movies. There was no restraint upon her. Unbridled now, she seems to lack discrimination She stops to browse along the way and art lags behind

"Dagmar" is nothing more or less than the story of a loose woman told in drab terms The hysterical overacting of Nazimova and her hideous costumes only emphasize the lack of color in the play

Use of Coueism as stage stuff increases The biggest laugh in "Give and Take" comes when George Sidney walks across the stage repeating the Coue doctrine as he counts the number of times on a string with 20 knots Sidney and Louis Mann get a lot of fun out of a play that deals with the serious subject of capital and labor.

The most notable innovation in the mechanics of the stage this setson is the use of a single set for all the scenes of a play. Thus in 'Hamlet" one set serves for graveyard and for palace. In "Will Shakespeare" the ceiling of the Stratford cottage is as high as that of Queen Elizabeth's palace. "In Dagmar" Frederick K. Jones II manages a bathing beach and a boudoir with equal facility in the same seting. The ceilng of the boudoir is as high as the sky.

ALL STAR CAST TO BE SEEN IN "THE CIRCLE"

John Drew and Mrs. Leslie Carter will be seen at the Auditorium theater for the matinee and night of Wednesday, February 7th, in "The Circle, a play that has brought new and great popularity to these longtime favorites of the stage. The supporting cast will include Ernest Lawford, Jerome Patrck, Clara Moores and Robert Rendel. Mail orders for tickets are now being filled in the order of their receipt.

BOBBED HAIR O. K. SAYS WM. FARNUM

William Farnum, hero extraordinary of many thrilling Western photoplays produced by William Fox, is strong for bobbed hair for women, with certain qualifications.

"There's nothing wrong with bobbed hair," asserts William Farnum. "It's sensible, saves the women a lot of trouble, and is very becoming to most. Of course, there are a good many hefty members of the feminine persuasion, and some with more or less unique features, to whom the shortened tresses is incongruous, but these are in the minority.

Farnum comes to the Alhambra next week.

REMARKABLE FEATURE SHOWN YESTERDAY

John Gilbert, whose work in the Fox special production "Shame," created much favorable comment throughout the country and made him a star, appeared yesterday at the Alhambra theater in his latest success, "The Yellow Stain," and won the enthusiastic approval of a large audience. The engagement will end tonight.

In this production Gilbert portrays a young lawyer who takes up his practice in a small town among the timberlands of Northern Michigan. From the start he is handicapped by the belligerent attitude of a certain village tyrant who endeavors to make away with the ambitious young man because the latter refuses to enter into a crooked arrangement with him.

"THE BAT" IS THE ATTRACTION TONIGHT

Wagenhals and Kemper, two of the most successful theatrical managers in the country, bring the greatest dramatic success of all years, "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, to the Auditorium theater tonight at 8:45 p. m.

"The Bat," which is thrilling, mysterious and at the same time screamingly funny, stands out sharp and clear above all dramatic plays offered during the past generation. "The Bat," played for more than two years at the Morosco theater, New York and in addition, another company, with a run of over one year at Chicago, broke all records for popularity in that city.

DECEASED STAR IS IN FILM "THE DICTATOR"

The late Wallace Reid, whose death only last week made the entire world sad, will be screened at the Auditorium tomorrow and for the three days following in "The Dictator." A paramount feature, a story of love and revolution in Latin America. A large case of players which includes Lila Lee is said to be the best that has ever supported this lamented star, who himself is seen in one of the most dashing roles of his career—an American devil may care seeking pulsing adventure, not particular as to what it is as long as there is risk and love The extra added features tomorrow are the best and the most expensive the management has ever indulged in.

TOONERVILLE COMEDY AT AUDITORIUM

Speaking of styles in hair dressing, the Toonerville trolley track had a permanent wave, according to one of Ralph Spence's subtitles in "Toonerville Topics," one of the Toonerville Comedies by Fontaine Fox, which is coming to the Auditorium theater starting Sunday.

MIX IN "NEW "TOUCH AND GO" PICTURE

Tom Mix is coming back to town soon. This popular Fox star will appear in "Romance Land" at the Alhambra theater for 3 days starting Monday. The film describes the adventures of two people who have an unshaken belief in the golden age of romance as it is vividly described in "Ivanhoe." and the immortal tales of King Arthur. Naturally one of these two is Tom Mix; the other, to quote advance notices, is an entrancing girl for whom Tom reads heaven and earth. These reports go on to say that the photoplay is jammed to the brim with dynamic action, clear photography and an alluring love theme, all interwoven with the bright skein of wholesome comedy.

A comedy and other features are promised.

HELEN JEROME EDDY IS NOW A STAR

Helen Jerome Eddy, long prominent on the screen, is elevated to stardom well merited in her first big independent production "When Love Comes," distributed by the Film Booking Offices of America and scheduled for exhibition at the Grand theater tomorrow and Monday.

Miss Eddy has attained success by reversing the usual order of things. First, she violated all precedents by being born in New York and coming to the West coast to find success, rather than making some point West of the Hudson her original stopping place and moving Eastward. She showed a decided aptitude for story writing at an early age and soon made her debut as a scenario writer.

Miss Eddy will be remembered favorably for her work in "The Turn in the Road," "One Man in a Million," "The County Fair," "Pollyanna," and similar big productions.

SIXTH EPISODE OF PATHE SERIAL "SPEED"

Some of the most spectacular scenes ever filmed are seen in "Panic," the sixth episode of the Pathe serial, "Speed," starring Charles Hutchison. The current chapter will be seen at the Grand theater tomorrow and Monday. Thrilling feats of horsemanship are a feature of the episode, but the real spinetingler comes near the close of the chapter when Hutchison overtakes a steamship in his motor boat and climbs aboard only to find that the ship is on fire. Everyone on board is panic-stricken in their endeavors to reach the life-boats and safety. As "Speed" Stanbury, the thrill-a-minute stunt king works with lightning-like speed, finding the man he is after and dragging him from the sea to a desert island.

SPIRIT OF OUTDOORS IN "DON'T TELL EVERYTHING"

Combining three of the most populaur figures of the screen—Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson and Elliott Dexter—the two former stars and the latter a featured player for Paramount pictures—comes "Don't Tell Everything" which will be seen at the Gem theater next Sunday.

The most interesting feature aside from the exceptional cast is that it is typically an out of door story, breathing the fragrance of the pine woods the life and action of the polo field, the charm of a California golf course.

Sam Wood the director, is a keen sport lover himself So is Wallace Reid and so indeed are all concerned. Dorothy Cuming who plays a girl of the modern athletic type is an accomplished sportswoman A real polo game was staged for the picture, and indeed nothing has been left undone to make this one of the season's most notable productions Lorna Moon wrote and A S LeVino adapted the story to the screen.

"BROTHERS UNDER THE SKIN" AT REX THEATER

A rollicking comedy drama, a picturization of a story by Peter B Kyne which ran in the Cosmopolitan Magazine, is the photoplay which comes to the Rex theater today. It is "Brothers Under the Skin," another of Goldwyn's "Big Twenty"; and judging from advance reports will be on an equally high plane with the productions that have preceded it.

The domestic misadventures of two young married couples and the husband's similar solution of their problem furnishes the plot of the story. One couple lives in a Bronx flat, the other in a Riverside Drive apartment. Both husbands are employed by the same firm, in capacities as widely different as their salaries—one a manager, the other a humble shipping clerk. But each encounters the same situation at home—a sweet, lovable wife, whose chief talent seems to be spending her husband's salary—and more.

A Bible Thought for Today

THY KEEPER:—The Lord is thy keeper: the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand.—Psalm 121:5.

THE GROWTH OF HEALTH

Possibly there may be as much sickness and ill health in the community as there used to be, but for some reason one does not hear so much about it. People who were brought up in country towns often remark on the prominent place that sickness used to have in the life of their community. The chief topic of conversation used to be the condition of this or that person who had some disease.

In these days the work of nursing sick people was done by neighbors, most of whom had never had any special training in the care of sick people. The community seemed full of suffering and the thought of disease seemed to fill the air.

As towns grow in size and people spend less time in talk about personal affairs and have wider interests, they are not so conscious of each other's affairs. Hence sickness may be considerably prevalent in these times without people realizing it.

Still it hardly seems as if sickness were so common as it used to be, except in cases where some epidemic like influenza gets a hold. For one reason, people call physicians more promptly in [illegible]. They avoid many serious illnesses as the result of [illegible] wrong conditions before they become dangerous. Also people are more familiar with the laws of health. They avoid many diseases by removing their causes.

Many families supposed to be of exceptional intelligence, would formerly have wells of drinking water located close to an earth toilet, and were careless in many other ways. When they got sick they looked at it as a misfortune which could not be helped. The community is gradually learning that disease is largely preventable.

THE GROUNDHOG SUPERSTITION

Education and scientific investigation keep spreading intelligence among the people, and yet primitive ideas linger in the mind of the race for many generations. One such notion is the quaint old superstition about the groundhog, that the spring weather can be foretold from the results of his annual excursion from his lair on February 2.

This old notion goes far back of modern history and is the heritage of a time before scientific discovery.

While modern knowledge laughs at old saws like the groundhog story and considers them a joke, yet they represent the groping efforts of primitive peoples to learn the facts of life as seen in the world about them. People had sharper eyes then, and could detect many indications that would be hidden to the folks of today. They over estimated the ability of the groundhog to forecast the weather of early spring, but they were keen observers of the external world, and knew more about nature than the town bred populations of present times.

HELPING SCHOOL ATHLETICS

High school pupils complain in many places that their towns do not support school athletics well. Their games are poorly attended, and it becomes impossible to raise a moderate sum for athletic expenses.

People of an old fashioned type often rail at school sport as something that is not a legitimate element in education. Yet modern young folks seem to need athletics as an outlet for their energy. These sports promote enthusiasm for school life, and help to induce young people to remain in school. The business community of Newark should give hearty encouragement to the school sports, and the games should be given liberal patronage.

Taxes on gasoline used by the motorist, or upon the individual automobile, are extremely unpopular. But the number of cars has increased so rapidly, that it does not seem as if the highways would ever get to the point where they should be, unless the car owners make a considerably increased contribution to the cost of the roads that they are wearing out so fast.

States, cities and counties must all contribute liberally to the cost of roads. The cities must realize that they can not get food products transported cheaply unless the country roads are in good shape. The federal government will have to help toward improving the main lines of travel.

Some people say they save money by owning an automobile, but they may find that the garage man usually charges more than the shoe cobbler.

THEY ARE GETTING IT.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

It is announced that the French have already moved 100,000 tons of coal from the Ruhr valley into France. This is not much, but it is enough to prove to both French and Germans that the man in charge om military occupation means business. A large amount of coal already on cars will be dispatched into France in the near future.

In order to come anywhere near making good their threats the French must either persuade the German mine workers to keep on working or import French miners to take their places. From every point of view the former alternative is the more desirable. Imported miners would be greatly handicapped by their ignorance of the mines, and France does not have [illegible] an army of workers [illegible] enough for the work that is required. For this reason the French are extremely considerate of the Ruhr workers. Every effort is being made to avoid a clash. Billy Ireland

This beautiful Young Thing with the earrings and the Cigarette, the ingenuous Calves and the anachronistic Coiffure, is Billy Ireland's very own idea of the conductor of the Melting Pot. It is a spirit drawing,—it must be, since the artist has never seen us in the flesh. Note how skillfully he has managed to convey the fact that underneath an angelic exterior she is a designing wretch, a subtle sort of character that we have longed, but scarcely hoped, to acquire. However, we shall always cherish the original drawing and perhaps every day in every way we shall grow liker and liker.

Is there any Kind Reader who will volunteer to accompany this Sweet young Creature on her pilgrimage to Billy Ireland's home?

Did You Know

That the word bible was first used by Chrysostom as early as the 5th century? He speaks of the sacred writings collectively as the Biblia or "the Books." The several books of the Bible as arranged and accepted at present are the results of years of labor and countless councils and revision assemblages. For 1,200 years after the death of Christ each book of the Bible was one continued story, undivided into chapters, paragraphs or verses.

Q. Is Pearl Harbor a natural harbor, or was it built? R. E. J.

A. Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, is a natural landlocked inlet with a depth ranging from [illegible] to 60 feet. However, there is a bar at the entrance with only 10 feet of water, and in order to make the harbor available to the larger ocean vessels it was necessary to dredge a channel four and a half miles long from the sea across the bar and coral reef. This work was completed in 1911.

Q. Why were old fashioned bridges covered and boarded in? F.C.

A. The covered bridge is a survival of an ancient custom. A great many of these bridges were built before the Revolutionary War and their builders followed the methods used by the old European bridge builders. The object of covering the roadway of the bridge was for the purpose of protection against the weather, against possible riots and primitive weapons.

Q. Was Paris ever the largest city in the world? J. M. T.

A. For more than a thousand years prior to about the middle of the last century Paris was the largest city in the world.

There is an old proverb which runs something like this:

He who knows not and knows not that he knows not, he is a fool, shun him; he who knows not and knows that he knows not, he can learn, teach him; he who knows and knows not that he knows, he is asleep, wake him; he who knows and knows that he knows, he is wise, follow him.

Which is merely a way of introducing the story of the hotel clerk.

There was a meeting of famous scientists in a Chicago hotel, and during one of the discussions some one called for an encyclopedia. There was none at hand, so one of the men went to the desk and asked of the clerk, "Have you an encyclopedia in the house?"

"No, sir, we haven't," said the clerk, "but—what was it you wished to know?"

RUBBER MEN SEEK SUPPLY

Would Make American Industry Independent of British Producers

Urge Exploitation of Rubber Plantations in Philippines

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—The American rubber industry as last has determined to break away from British control and produce its own raw marial. Henry Ford, who probably is the world's largest single consumer of rubber tires, and Harvey S. Firestone, one of the largest tire manufacturers, are joining forces to exploit the rubber resources of the Philippine Islands and South America.

The United States consumes more rubber than the rest of the world put together. The phenomenal growth of the automobile industry in this country has increased rubber consumption for tires to tremendous proportions. Rubber is a product of the tropics. The best rubber, in fact nearly all of it, comes from British controlled possessions in the Orient. The Federated Malay states, Sumatra and Ceylon are the principal producers.

Last November the British placed a graduated tax on rubber exports from these colonies. The result is that the cost of rubber in the United States is doubled. It is estimated that the British tax has added $100,000,000 to the cost of rubber to American consumers.

The American rubber industry filed a protest with Great Britain against the tax but to no avail. Great Britain had protested against the increased American tariff and no attention was paid to that protest. It was scarcely to be expected that Great Britain would heed our protest against the rubber tax.

Realizing this, Mr. Ford and Mr. Firestone finally decided that the only manner of emancipating the American rubber consumer from the exigencies of British politics was to control our own sources of supply. Mr. Ford has been developing a policy of industrial self reliance for some years. He has purchased iron ore mines, has erected a steel mill, has acquired coal mines and a railroad. The next inevitable step was that he should interest himself in the control of raw material for his rubber tires.

The Philippine Islands and the Amazon river basin in South America have all the natural advantages for producing as good rubber as the Dutch East Indies or Ceylon. They have never been intensively developed because production costs were too high to enable Philippine and South American rubber successfully to compete with the Eastern product. The imposition of the British tax removes this difficulty. The tax automatically adds 100 per cent to the foreign cost of the rubber from British sources.

The big island of Mindano is the principal cource of rubber in the Philippines and congress is being asked to request the Philippine territorial government to liberalize its land laws to aid the American industrialists in the exploitation of the island rubber. The Amazon Basin drains the countries of Brazil, Venezuela, Columbia, Ecquador, Peru, and Bolivia. All of these countries are capable of producing a high grade of rubber and, through diplomatic channels, the American overnment is expected to bespeak the cooperation of the South American governments in aid of the great rubber producing enterprise projected by Mr. Ford and Mr. Firestone.

It will add millions to the wealth of both the Philippines and the South American countries. The great plantations which will be set out will afford employment to thousands of native workers and in the course of the development railroads will be built and steamship lines established. Every country in which the Americans begin their enterprise will benefit largely.

There are serious obstacles to overcome. The climate of these regions is forbidding to the white man. The first step will be the sending in of sanitation engineers to improve conditions so that fever will not attack the workmen. It is likely that the Amazon River will have to be improved in places. Some dredging may be required and the removal of submerged logs. Spur lines of railroads doubtless will be constructed.

The present rubber industry of South America and the Philippines is chiefly confined to wild forest rubber. There have been some experimental plantations set out but nothin on as large a scale as that now contemplated. The natives are sent into the jungles to tap the trees growing in the forests.

One of the obstacles to be overcome is the Surinam leaf disease. This parasite has played havoc with the experimental rubber plantations in Dutch and British Guiana and resulted in abandonment of many plantations, the trees being cut down to make room for coffee planting. It is thought that American botanical science will be able to cope successfully with this obstacle.

Ever since the rubber industry was started, London has been the rubber capital of the world. With so much of the producing end of the business in British hands, control of the rubber market naturally gravitated to the British capitol. London quotations control the market all over the world.

It is predicted that this situation will be altered and that New York or some other American city will become the rubber market of the world as the result of the Ford-Firestone enterprise.

While the bulk of the rubber producing business now is in the hands of the British and other European nations, the United States is the chief consumer. All these producers look to this country as a market for their output. Americans, in reality, pay their dividends. When the Ford-Firestone plantations, augmented by those of other Americans, get on a large production basis, the rubber will come directly to the United States for fabrication in American manufacturing plants. It is hoped to bring this production up to the requirements of American consumption. If this is done, it readily is seen that the European producers will do no more business with the United States. A natural result would be displacing of London as the rubber capital of the world.

Such a change would be of the utmost importance. When an industry centers about a great city, a vast network of allied activities is built up about that center. The financing, the insurance, the shipping, the conditioning, and the brokerage all adhere to the city which is the rubber market. In consequence, if New York displaces London as the world's rubber center, this collateral business wil adhere to New York rather than to the British capitol.

So extensive a program will require time in development but American methods of mass production will be applied and the traditional American hustle will be employed. With these forces turned loose, an American controlled crude rubber industry, free of any British or other foreign restriction, may be regarded as in sight.

FOG AND WIRELESS.

Fog has some effect on radio communication, but exactly what is is has not yet been discovered. So a British aviator has undertaken to fly an airplane through foggy atmosphere and try to signal to land stations at the same time. Records will be made for future study.

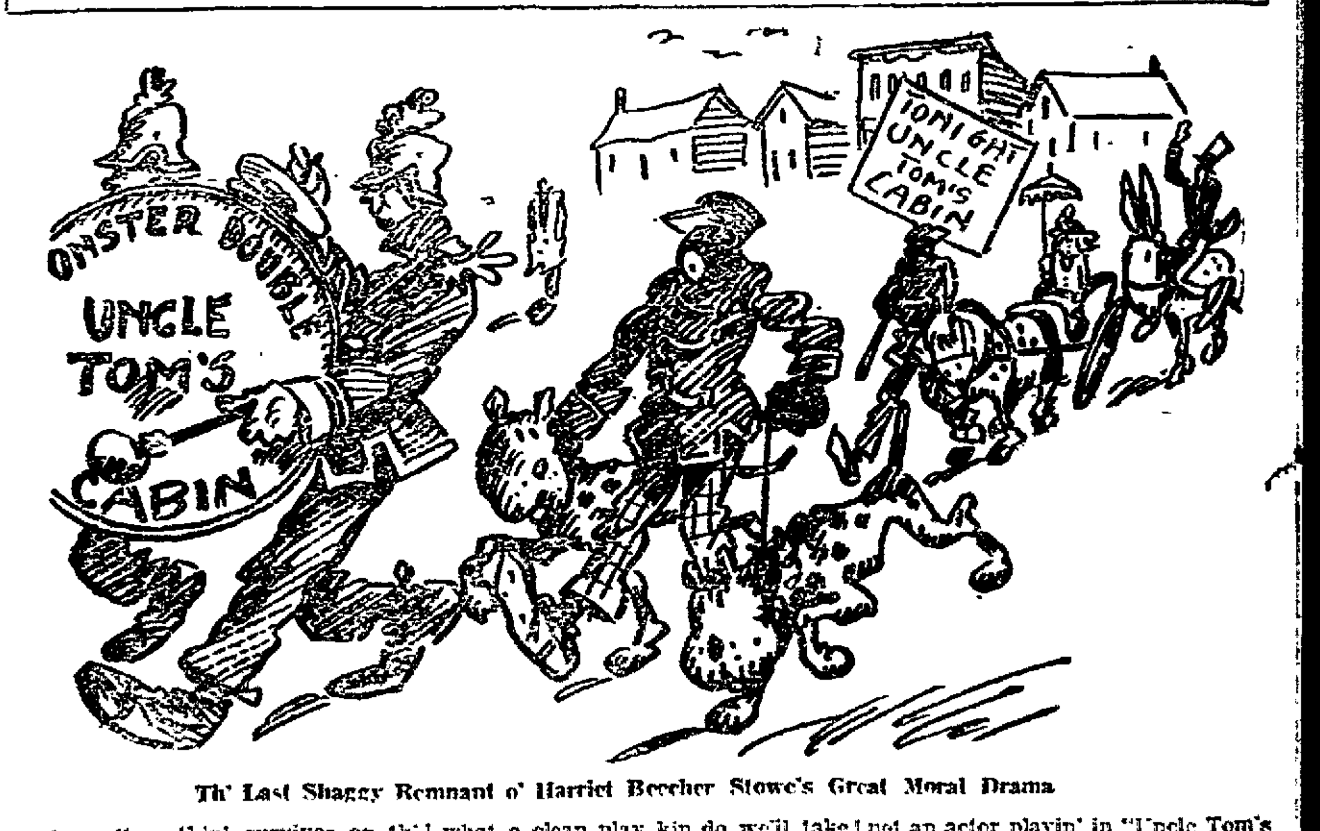
NEW ZEALAND BUTTER IN N. Y.

A big consignment of butter from the other side of the world is now crossing the Pacific from New Zealand to New York. While since the war began the American cow has supplied one-half billion dollars' worth of her products for foreign trade, we find cows in other parts of the globe quietly invading our markets by unaccustomed routes, have sent us $120,000,000 worth of their products. The great dairy industry of New Zealand does not find the equator and the long trip across the Pacific a bar to our markets. And yet the out-turn of our butter, cheese and condensed milk factories exceeded a billion dollars the last census year, 1919.

ABE MARTIN On Topics o' th' Day



Th' Last Shaggy Remnant o' Harriet Beecher Stowe's Great Moral Drama

After all, nothin' survives on th' stage like th' clean, wholesome drama or comedy, plays like "Th' Ole Homestead," showin' th' barn yard an' Grace Church in a snow storm, "Camille," with its tearful scenes, "Way Down East," with its real sheep an' actual turkey dinner, an' even "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with little Eva climbin' th' golden stairs, th' jubilee singers, an' ole faithful Tom. Performers have grown up an' died in "Th' Ole Homestead," while millions an' millions have chuckled an' choked up at th' comedy an' homely pathos o' Uncle Josh. Fer years an' years "Camille" has tested th' heart strings o' th' nation, an' Clara Morris's name 'll survive so long as tears flow. Fortune upon fortune has been piled up from th' wool alone from "Way Down East," t' say nothin' o' th' millions o' box office receipts. As a modern example o' what a clean play kin do we'll take "Lightnin," which played in hard boiled New York for over five years an' is still turnin' 'em away in ornery ole Chicago after a couple o' years. Ther's not a suggestive word in Lightnin'," not a bare shin, or a low neck, or a raw scene. It's jest a wholesome drama with jest enough comedy in it t' hold th' tears back. It's what th' people like an' what th' people, not part o' th' people, but all th' people, want. Ther's enough nakedness an' vulgarity in real life without playin' it up on th' stage. But Uncle Tom's Cabin," we don't believe anything, next t' th' nickel cigar, ever deteriorated as gradually an' evenly as Uncle Tom's Cabin." When we first saw th' ole drama ther wuz thirty-six characters, a prologue an' six acts an' six tableaux. It wuz cast with able an' notable performers, one jackass, an' four bloodhounds. It didn' give no street pe-rade any more than "Hamlet." T'day ther's not an actor playin' in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," an' only two instrumentalists. Th' aggregation is made up o' alo players, mules, soft shoe dancers, a cornetist, a fiddler, a mangy pony, a black-snake whip, a couple o' painted drops, an' a mother with a blonde child. Still Harriet Beecher Stowe's great immortal story still appeals an' fills th' the-aters. Fer many years "Uncle Tom's Cabin" afforded th' only excuse th' religious element had fer darkenin' a the-ater door, fer it wuz regarded as a great moral drama. "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with its German Dane dogs, "Marchin' Thro' Georgia" Band, patient burro, an' little, frouzy, red-nosed Eva 'll be pe-radin' th' streets long after th' bare-legged reviews, sex dramas, bedroom comedies an' goose pimpled synthetic dancers are gone an' forgotten, because it's supposed t' be moral an' upliftin.' Right now ther hain't a the-atrical manager in th' country that wouldn' junk ever'thing he's mixed up in fer a play "jest like Lightnin."

What Becomes of The Actress Out of a Job

Margaret Allen

"What will become of the actresses out of work?" everybody asked last winter when the theatrical slump came.

"If they can't get jobs on the stage," answered Margaret Allen, they'll have to work at something else until they can.

"Most actresses can sew and make hats. Many can cook and paint.

"Let's open an exchange and show the public what they can do."

So she opened an exchange in her own parlor and invited all girls out of work to bring in what they could make and she began to sell these offerings.

The enterprise flourished but didn't make money enough.

"Let's open a restaurant as well," Miss Allen said.

Thereupon the Stage Door Inn came into existence.

Soon it became one of the most popular eating places in New York.

There are no waitresses. Guests are served by actresses who may be stars one day, but they're hostesses, not waitresses.

Smart New Yorkers and tourists like having their soup brought to them by pretty girls with neat frocks and beautifully kept fingers. Soon patrons began to ask for actresses to come to their homes to help them as assistant hostesses in receiving their guests.

Also a number of would-be Bernhardts proved amazingly clever at arranging tables and making favors. Society women enjoy saying that their decorations are actress-made.

In the past 10 months Miss Allen has organized 400 girls for work which will not interfere with theatrical job hunting. She has paid out more than $10,000 in salaries alone.

"This year I hope to do much more," she says, "for again there is much unemployment.

"Among other things, I plan to provide teachers of French, singing and dancing, so that girls may improve themselves and become more valuable to the profession while they wait for positions."

The Inn will be closed on Christmas Day to the general public, but it will keep open house for members of the theatrical profession.

Friday evening the Masonic Dancing club entertained at the Masonic Temple with a Poverty ball. Eddie Ewald and his orchestra furnished the program and refreshments were served to the following dancers:

The One-Man Woman

(By RUTH AGNES ABELING.)

CHAPTER 40
KATE'S QUEST.

"What did you want of Alice?" asked the woman. Her tone was low. There was a trace of suspicion in it. Kate immediately catalogued her as a friend of the girl's.

"I wanted to see her," she replied.

"Friend o' her?" the woman persisted.

"Yes—a friend of hers," Kate repeated. Then, "Do you know where she is? I want her very much."

"And that I can't tell you," said the woman. "I'm the only friend she's got around here except the folks at the laundry, but she don't even tell me where she goes these days.

"And we've been friends for a good many years," the woman went on. "I knew Alice when she first started out for herself."

"How long ago was that " Kate asked. She had often wondered about Alice's earlier life.

"About 10 years ago," reminiscently "She couldn't a' been more'n 18 then. Pretty a little devil as ever I seen. And gay! Maybe you think she didn't have the beaux! She might a' been a fine lady now if she hadn't fallen for the wrong man.

"And say," she lowered her voice. "I've got a sneakin' idea that's where she is now. She fell dead for this man, couldn't see no other, and him just a plain tramp, living any way he could.

"Alice and me were keeping bachelor rooms when she met this fellow. I don't know how she happened to hit it off with me. I was on the stage yu' know, dancing, and fell. I never got over it enough to go back again. I wasn't doing much of anything when Alice came along and she wasn't doing much either, so we put our cups and saucers together and decided the bacon'd go farther if it was all fried in one pan. Many a time that girl's shared her last dime with me, 'cause she always could get along better than I could, being prettier and about 10 years younger.

"Then this guy came along and Alice left me. But she never forgot me—always came back, bringing me things." The woman hesitated. Every once in a while she'd come back and stay with me a week or two. Then she'd go away again.

"But for the past three years she's been living right here, and me too. Once in a while, like now, she goes away, saying nothing of where she's going and doesn't come back for a day or two.

"And when she does comes," the woman's voice became thoughtful, "she always looks as if she's been crying a lot.

"She was a slave to that man—I think she's still keeping in touch with him, no account as he is.

"She married him then?" Kate asked.

"Married him?" repeated the woman. "aw, child, I don't know. I never saw their marriage license—but she's the best little friend I ever had."

Ohio Club Women

BY MRS. GEORGE ELLIOTT M'CORMICK.

Back home again from Washington, where she attended a meeting of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's clubs in the large drawing room of General Federation headquarters at No. 1734 N street, northwest, Mrs. Cornelius S. Selover, Cleveland, Ohio Federation president, General Federation director for Ohio and member of the General Federation headquarters committee, is enthusiastic over the much needed national federated club home. She had hoped to pay one-third of Ohio's pledge, but as only $2,000 had been paid in this was impossible. The sum of $3 333 was necessary for a third.

"The need for funds now is urgent owing to the expense of remodeling, furnishing and installation of elevator and heating plant." Mrs. Selover declares. "Ohio clubs that have not yet paid will please send their money to the treasurer, Mrs. Allen Marshall, Piqua, Ohio so that another payment on our first installment can be made by March 15, if possible."

In addition to the individual pledges of state federations, the General Federation board decided that hereafter any rooms furnished by a state as a memorial must be paid, also, Mrs. Selover points out in an interesting report of the General board meeting. "Before the biennial convention in Chautauqua, Pennsylvania, was given permission to furnish a room," she says, "in honor of Mrs. Ames, the mother of Mrs. Thomas C. Winters, of Minneapolis, General Federation president, and Massachusetts one in honor of Julia Ward Howe.

"The final opening of the headquarters was held Thursday evening, January 11th, when a formal reception was conducted for official Washington. Many congressmen and their wives were present.

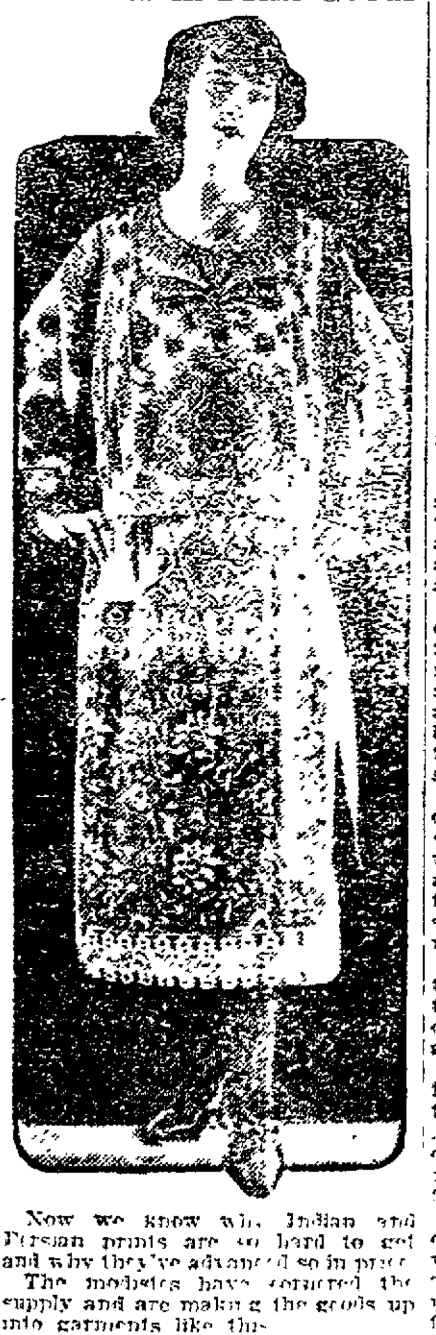
"Friday evening, a reception to all club women and their husbands living in or round about Washington was conducted. The reports of chairmen showed great interest in the work of the federation. Organization of Junior Clubs was strongly urged, also county organizations. Junior clubs in Ohio are asked to send their names to Mrs. Kenneth R. Taylor, Sheridan road, South Euclid, Ohio. She is state chairman of Junior memberships.

"When we consider that there are 50 states, including Alaska and the District of Columbia, in the General Federation, Ohio is indeed fortunate to have so many places of honor in the General Federation," Mrs. Selover observes. Among Buckeye club women high in the councils of the national organization are Mrs. Prentice E Hood, of Toledo, former president of the Ohio Federation and now chairman of the General Federation committee on public health nursing, Mrs. Edith McClure Patterson, Dayton, chairman of the committee on house budgets; Miss Genevieve Cline, Cleveland, second vice-president of the committee on legislation; Mrs. John MacKee, Springfield, war memorials; Mrs. Cornelius S. Selover, Cleveland, Ohio. Federation head and General Federation director, member of the General Federation headquarters commitee, chairman of the committee on standardization of state constitutions, vice chairman of Junior memberships and member of committee to formulate plans for club institutes.

The need of better understanding of club methods and club ethics by club women is apparent to many club womn. This need was recognized at the general board meeting which decided to create a committee to formulate plans for club institutes for the benefit of clubs all over the United States. Organization work often is handicapped by the frequent changes of committee members in clubs, many of whom are not experienced.

Mrs. Selover reports that the majority of the general board members remained over in Washington for a day to attend the industrial conference called by Miss Mary Anderson, of the women's bureau, United States department of labor. President Harding received the board on Thursday, after which a tour of the different departments of government of especial interest to club women was made.

There Must Be a Corner in Print Goods



Now we know why Indian and Persian prints are so hard to get and why they've advanced so in price.

The modistes have cornered the supply and are making the goods up into garments like this.

The most limited Palm Beach wardrobe includes at least one such gown; the complete ones include several. The colors are gay reds, greens and blues.

BORROWED BABY

Manchester England—Judge Mellor noted that almost all the women who appeared before him one morning had babies in their arms. Then he found out each one had carried the same baby, borrowed from its mother, to play on the court's sympathy.

WHAT MAKES BABY CRY

(By DR. A. O. PETERS)
Health Commissioner, Dayton, Ohio

Since a baby cannot talk, the mother must learn to read surface indications and to interpret his crying.

A healthy child gains regularly in weight, has a warm, moist skin, sleeps peacefully and cries only when hungry, uncomfortable or in a temper. During sleep, his limbs are relaxed and there is no tossing about.

His breathing is regular, easy and quiet ordinarily, though during the first week of life it may be irregular in perfectly normal babies. A baby should breathe through his nose and keep the mouth closed. Mouth breathing usually indicates enlarged tonsils, adenoids or some nasal obstruction.

Babies need a certain amount of crying to develop their lungs. When children cry for everything they want, it is the result of faulty training. If a baby cries much of the time, he may not be ill, but there is something wrong with him. Learn what he is trying to say.

A low, whimpering cry, sometimes accompanied by sucking of the fingers or lips, is the hunger cry. Babies also cry so from indigestion.

Sometimes a baby cries from fretfulness. He may be too warm or tired of being in the same position. A tepid sponge bath and gentle rub or a change of clothing often prove restful. If the crying continues, the child may be ill.

The colic or pain cry is a lusty one, sometimes rising to a shriek, with tears in the eyes. In colic or abdominal pain the knees are drawn up and the fists clenched. A tight fist is a good indication of pain. If the crying increases with the moving of an arm or leg or when placing the child in certain positions, he may need a doctor's attention.

The very sick baby does not cry hard. There is a low moaning, or a wail, with sometimes a turning of the head from side to side.

Any change from normal, needs attention. Unusual flushing or pallor of the face, sleeplessness, lack of energy, loss of appetite, profuse sweating of the head, peevishness, vomiting or any bowel disorder give warning that something is wrong.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Among the Wallachs, the gypsies of Asia Minor, when a bethrothal has been announced the village girls troop to the forest to cut firewood for the young couple.

They choose at the same time a branch having at its extremity five twigs. On one they fasten an apple; on the other four, tufts of red wool.

The apple is an emblem of love, the tufts of wool are symbolic of household thrift and industry.

INSTEAD OF EMBROIDERY.

Cutwork self-trimming is being used on many of the heavy wool and silk gowns instead of embroidery. It is seen frequently on coats as well as on gowns.

AUTO MAKES LAND VALUABLE

Cleveland Man Advances Theory That Tax on Auto Is Penalty for Benefit of Others

Cleveland, Jan. 27.—(By NEA)—Automobile owners are paying for the increased value of land they do not own.

This is the contention of David Gibson, publisher and single taxer, of this city, in an article published in the Ohio Motorist for February.

"The minute an automobile goes into the service of its purchaser," he points out, "it adds to the value of every foot of land it might pass throughout its entire life. It renders all land more available—more accessible.

"In other words the automobile owner is fined (taxed) annually for making some one else's property more valuablee.

The state carefully fines (taxes) every automobile that comes into service and exempts the increases in the land values that it creates.

"It fines (taxes) the automobile owner for the value that he creates and rewards the recipient of this value, the land owner, who had no part in its creation.

"The automobile has made more profit for the land owners along the way of its passage than the automobile manufacturer, dealer and owner combined.

"It is a matter of thoughtless conclusion that the automobile uses the roads and it should be taxed as a matter of construction cost and upkeep.

"But good roads add far more to the land value along their sides than the cost of construction, and this last was true back in the horse and buggy days"

As an instance Gibson cites the construction of the Chicago boulevard system, which cost $16,000,000, but which, he says, added $150,000,000 to the value of the abutting land

"If the automobile adds so materially to the land value along which it passes," he concludes, "why should there not be an assessment against this land value to pay what is now being assessed, in the form of a tax and license fee, against the automobile owner?"

ADJUSTABLE SHIELD

If the weather is bad the whole windshield may remain closed, But at other times, the form of shield can be adjusted to conform with the weather. It is divided into six parts, each adjustable of itself.

SAVES LADY'S SHOES

Women may drive their cars, hereafter, without fear of scuffing the back of their shoes—if they attach heel guards manufactured by a Muncie, Ind, firm. They are made of leather and an adjustable strap makes it possible to fit them to any high heeled shoe.

Nearly on third of the plate glass made in this country went into the automobiles, last year.

DURANT AND STAR CARS
To be handled by Ralph E. Wheeler, Formerly of this City.

All Newark and vicinity has been in a state of expectancy, wondering who would be the fortunate representative of the Durant line of motorcars in Licking county.

This new automotive merchant needs no introduction to the public here, he is well known as having given to Newark, the first new system of window baking, established in 1920, in the Arcade annex

On a recent motor trip of approximately ten thousand miles, extending as far North as the city of Quebec to as far South as Miami, Florida his attention was attracted everywhere by the rapid strides of the Durant organization, says Mr. Wheeler.

With this in mind, and believing Newark to have as many advantages as any place he knows, he considers it a great pleasure not only to relocate here, but to offer to motor-car buyers, what he believes is the greatest value in automobiles today.

The new concern will be known as The Wheeler Auto Sales Company, and until a new building is constructed, will be located at 41 South Second street, associated with it will be salesmen long identified with the automobile busines in this city.

This location is now undergoing extensive repairs and in a short while an opening date will be announced.

5285 INSPECTIONS PER CAR

The faithfulness of performance so universally remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars, is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

A trained staff of 1100 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5,285 inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation, either in workmanship or material, is sufficient cause for immediate rejection.

Dodge Brothers are almost over-scrupulous in their constant aim to make each car as sound and perfect as is humanly possible.

R. Wright, West Broadway. An oyster supper was planned but when the members of the family assembled at the residence, no host or hostess could be found. The tables seemed completely turned. Where could they be? Perhaps they were hiding. After a thorough search through the house inquiries were made about the neighborhood and they were located finally by telephone. The couple then, althogther innocent and unaware of what was in store, came trudging home to be met by their hilarious younger generations. The evenink was spent most enjoyably, and Mrs. Wright was felicitated on the anniversary of her birth.

Miss Nellie Reese entertained the members of the Winter Picnic club Wednesday afternoon at the G. T. Jones residence in East Elm street. At the 6 o'clock dinner served in the dining room covers were laid for nineteen members.

Chicago Grain Review

Chicago, Jan 27—With offerings rather free and but limited demand, the wheat market had a downward tendency today during the early dealings. Rain and snow in the winter crop territory counted as a bearish influence. There were also predictions current that world shipments for the week would show a large total. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 lower with May $116 1-2 to $116 7-8 and July $111 to $111 2-2 was followed by a moderate general sag and then something of a reaction.

Corn and oats declined with wheat. After opening unchanged to 3-8 lower, May 72 3-4c, the corn market underwent a set back all around.

Oats started unchanged to 1-4 off, May 44 3-8c, later all deliveries were down a little.

Prospects of continued liberal receipts of hogs weakened the provision market.

Wall Street

New York, Jan. 27—Opening prices in today's stock market were irregular with a resumption of profit taking in some of the public utilities and specialties and fresh buying of the independent steels. Kresge was pushed up 1 3-4 to 210, a new high record, on publication of favorable earning statements. Corn Products and Royal Dutch each dropped a point. Bethlehem and Gulf States steels improved fractionally.

Marine preferred dropped 1 1-4 points to 38, a new low record since 1921. Royal Dutch extended its loss to two points and Willys Overland preferred dropped one. There was a fair demand for some of the dividend paying rails, Lackawanna, New York Central, Norfolk and Western and Chicago and Northwestern gaining half to one point. Advances of one to 1 1-2 points

Crucible Steel, Savage Arms and Spicer Manufacturing. American Can, Chandler Motor, United Fruit, American Smelting and Standard Oil of California also moved to higher ground. Foreign exchanges were easier. The German mark fell to .0037 cents or approximately 27,000 to the American dollar.

Principal interest in today's brief and irregular session of the stock market centered in the further depreciation of foreign exchanges and buying demand of obscure shares whose flutuations ordinarily do not influence the general trend. Heaviness cropped out in a number of the standard shares, particularly Union Pacific, Bethlehem Steel and some of the foreign oils. Baltimore and Ohio enjoyed a brief period of strength on publication of the December earnings statement showing an increase of nearly $3,500,000 in net operating income. St. Paul preferred, Norfolk and Western and Lackawanna also moved to higher ground. Spicer Manufacturing, Continental Insurance, Parish and Bingham corporation, and Kresge were among the strong spots while Royal Dutch. General Asphalt and Republic Steel preferred sold off one to two points. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 350,000 shares.

Clearing House Condition.

New York, Jan. 27.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $14,624,520 in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $2,551,920.

ELECTRIC HITS STORE FRONT; LITTLE DAMAGE

Mrs. Louis Mitchell of Hudson avenue met with a peculiar accident about 10 o'clock this morning as she parked her electric and stepped out of the car in front of the Haughey millinery store in Hudson avenue. In some way her coat caught in the electric control of the car as she got out and the machine started across the sidewalk.

The electric struck a heavy post at the corner of the front display window and stopped. The post was slightly damaged but fortunately the display window glass was not broken. The only damage to the car was a broken front light.
